Located within an existing building in the center of Jönköping, Semrén & Månsson has designed lifestyle hotel Vox. Luxurious suites with views over Vättern are mixed with compact rooms for shorter stays.

The lobby forms a meeting space and an extended living room area for guests as well as for the citizens of Jönköping. A wavy wooden wall runs through the entrance floor and link bar, restaurant, front desk and lobby together. Enclosing niches protrude the wooden wall and form intimate seatings. The rich scale of colours contrasts to the graphically striped floor, which pattern continues out onto the street.

Vox Hotel has 143 rooms. A fifth floor crowns the existing brick building and hosts suites and gym. But it is beneath the street where it becomes the most intriguing. Here, the smallest rooms are hidden, richly decorated, intimate and thoroughly detailed for maximum comfort and experience.

Each floor has its own character with materials such as velvet, brass and rock reappear in the whole interior. Great attention has been given to details. Hotel Vox offers everyday luxury for everyone, regardless price or room.
